Jeremy brought the meeting to order at 6:28

Kari read last month's minutes

End of calendar year treasurer's report:

Beginning club balance: $13,668

Ending club balance: $13,963

The club has saved almost all fees paid to Square by switching to Zelle. US Bank also credited us $500 for opening our new account.

Health & Welfare: Dennis was given a warm "welcome back" from those present. Three cards giving well wishes have been sent in the last month. It was also acknowledged that several members are providing additional care to aging parents.

Newsletter: Paul has reiterated that migrating to Constant Contact has been a significant challenge due to the learning curve. It was suggested that any member can send Paul an article to be published. Links to interesting information or articles can also be sent since they can be embedded into the newsletter.

New member recruiting: Our efforts have been working quite well. The most effective method has been HHYC members directly talking to people in the various marinas. Chuck suggested we assign "mentors" to new members.

The question of RBAW membership came up yet again. It was emphasized how important that organization is to all boaters. A few new ideas were thrown out, and this discussion will be taken up with the new HHYC board in the new year.

A brief update on this coming season's events was given.

There will be a rendezvous in Eagle Harbor sometime in late March. This will be a great opportunity for some of us to anchor out. Anchoring instructions may also be given for those interested. There will also be the opportunity for some HHYC members to visit their alternate club's outstations.

Moving the crab derby to Oak Harbor is under consideration.

New Business:

Sue Burke indicated that Chuck Gould from QCYC is creating a local boater's newsletter. He has asked if HHYC would like to be featured in one of the early additions.

Dennis suggested the club donate some money to a local charity. After some excited conversation, it was decided to table this and let the board discuss it per the club bylaws.

Jeremy adjourned the meeting at 7:24
